SMALL TOWN

Hey buddy how's it going man well it's been too long I hear you changed your wife, your life, your car tell me what went wrong Well I've always been the same but this is all I've dreamed
I got a four-bedroom house, a wife, and two kids, sitting on the edge of town
When we were young you would always say were gonna bust out of here someday
Out of this small town
Out of this loser's town out of this place that I now call my home
Out of this small town off of this barren ground hey man don't you remember this is your hometown too?

Is your name still big uptown, there's always second time round
I hear your leaving state hey but wait you know; NY's always been your goal You'd take the place by storm leave it wasted and torn So things didn't work out there's no need to shout
I see you've lost your sense of fun
gonna bust out of here someday
Out of this small town out of this loser's town
Out of this place that I now call my home
Out of this small town off of this barren ground hey
man don't you remember this is your hometown too?

Well I work town at the plant to make my money do all I can I'll do any thing I have to hey man what do you do to just get by Well my kids are growing up strong they know what's right they know what's wrong While the others run the street across the tracks our are always home
Not like when we were young you would always say were

gonna bust out of here some day
Out of this small townThanks to davemartyn01
