At first I must admit I wasn't looking for nothing
When I stepped into the crowd all the colors started running
But I take a chance when it comes to me And through the blur, yeah there you were
And for a moment I was 16, aching as always
For a girl collecting light far down a crowded hallway
If I knew back then what I know now, I wouldn't have even tried Cause now I've looked into your eyes

I've been in love so many times, it never gets easier
I make mistakes, I never seem to learn
Hey you, don't you go and make me hurt

I can be sure as hell you're not interested in hearing About the road I walked before, I wish I could strike it clear
But I will spare you the dirt and gravel strewn about my past
And I'll suffice it just to tell you that All the regrets I've ever had, all the mistakes I've ever made Well they all just disappeared the moment I looked into your face
You know I wouldn't change a minute that led up to now
As long as you don't shoot me down, don't shoot me down

I've been in love, so many times it never gets easier
I make mistakes, I never seem to learn
No you understand, when I hold you in my shaking hands
When we're singing along to a 1990s band
Hey you, no one's gonna ruin our plans

When I was young
I had this dream
There was this girl always next to me
I knew her heartbeat, her hands

But every time I tried to see her face She'd turn away
But it was love

I knew that it was you right when the night got cold You pressed your body into mine, all your heart all your soul
I found your fingers in the darkness and everything was still
All the pain was killed, all the blood was spilled
