"Inside Your Sky"

I look into the sun and colors jump these skies
All these clouds taking over, the endless of the blue
I close my eyes and trust in you
No lights to guide my way
My bed's not made our clothes are off no socks to hide our feet

We were one fighting, one not to disagree behind our nakedness two souls afraid to keep
We fight ourselves, an anger we possess
Forgetting to retreat those things we never leave
Pure bodies press together with nothing to hide
Together asleep, we both can rise

I want to be inside your sky.
