Your quiet eyes
Your mouth that never tells lies
You've got one hour
It's time you told your story

Eighteen alone
In love with the antiphone

And too afraid
You're too afraid to fall for anything
And too afraid
Much too afraid to sing

I won't pretend that I can see the end
But it's far away, it's in the distance
We'll find a place
There isn't room for two of us

The minutes drag
Then there's a world between us

And I'm too afraid
Much too afraid to fall for anything
And I'm too afraid
Much too afraid to sing, to sing

We all come to an end
And we all end together
We all come to an end
And we all end together
We all come to an end
And we all end together

And we all end together
We all end together
We all end together
We all end together
