Set your mind on mine for the part
Before they catch you baby
And never be just what they want you to be

Now that you've grown so wise
Use that head and stop to think a little
Just cause you're crazy doesn't mean that you're free

Packing dream grade ten hours of total devastator
baby
Found in the school yard, they all fell to their knees
But it can't be '93 sadly cause I wish it could forever
You call it luck I call it tragedy

What would you say
If I fell apart, could you bring me back then
What would you say
If I fell apart, could you bring me back?

We got a rock DJ,
We got a total fucking alcoholic
We got a thing they call a cyber-girl
One more patient please for the dude who sold this Ecstasy
He's building homes now in the new third world

The snow just keeps on falling in the Hawaii, under station's west
Find someone close and hold them like you care
This is a race to the end and I don't intend to win it
baby
You go ahead, I'm gonna meet you there
B, A, D used to talk of relativity
That was way back when everyone was scared
Now that we're deep inside, the wise there's a \hat{a}^1 —lace to hide
You can do things they would've never dared

What would you say
If I fell apart, could you bring me back then
What would you say

If I fell apart, could you bring me back?

So don't get scared
What would you say
There will be things we never dared
If I fell apart, could you bring me back then

So don't get scared
What would you say
There will be things we never dared
If I fell apart, could you bring me back then

Don't be scared, there will be things we never dared
Don't be scared, there will be things we never dared
