You were his satellite
You lit the sky on an otherwise dark night
Another planet came along
And now your orbit is wrapped around a brighter sun

Does this money help you sleep
Does it pay for promises that you didn't keep
If another planet comes along
Will you change again and wrap around a new new sun

Shouldn't have done him wrong

This sinking motion that you feel
I hope this wound is rusted and it never heals
I know that he is moving on
So let me be the one to darken your new new sun

Shouldn't have done him wrong

Shouldn't have done him wrong
Now you're dreaming, singing the same song
