There's no reign there's no stop there's no freedom to your right
In their world

Yes it's true what you thought
There's no freedom to your words
In their world

Will you come, will you go
Will you ever really know what's your world?
Are you simple, are you blame
Are there letters at the end of your name?

When the lights toggled out
And you're filled with bitter doubt
In Their world

There's a need for a change
There's a need to rearrange your world

Will you come, will you go
Will you ever really know what's your world?
Are you simple, are you blame
Are there letters at the end of your name?

And love, love will let you down
With sunlight on your face
It's gently fading now

Uhuhuuu Uhuhu Uhuhuuuu Uhuhuu

And when the lights toggle out
And you're filled with a bitter doubt
In their world

There's a need for a change
There's a need to rearrange your world

Will you come, will you go
Will you ever really know what's your world?
Are you simple, are you blame

Are there letters at the end of your name?

And love, love will let you down
With sunlight on your face
We'll still get through somehow
