It could have been hard not living up in
It could have been different from living in the rain
I close my eyes cause I know that I'm afraid
And I wanted to have said it now I want to explain

So lock myself in my room
And take another overdose, freeze frame
I know I'm alive when there's nothing left to blame
Just this lightning running through my veins
I'm alive
And it's all coming back to me

Cause life's a memory
An emotional time we've all been feeling
We're suffocating now but you'll feel yourself someday
My new philosophy is an emotional ride that we've all been taking
We're suffocating now but you'll feel yourself someday

It could have been hard not living in this world
And it could have been said that this town was too small
I turn on the lights cause I know that I'm afraid
And I wanted to have said it now I want to explain

So I throw myself another celebration day
I can say what I want and slowly slip away
Reflect what I'm feeling but I couldn't give it meaning
Just this lightning running through my veins
I'm alive
And it's all coming back to me

Cause life's a memory
An emotional time we've all been feeling
We're suffocating now but you'll feel yourself someday
My new philosophy is an emotional ride that we've all
been taking
We're suffocating now but you'll feel yourself someday

No one shows us the way, that's the labyrinth
No one shows us the way, that's the labyrinth

No one shows us the way, that's the labyrinth
No one shows us the way
