

Feelers, The "Rain"

Visit "Rain" on MotoLyrics.com

I'm looking out when I should be looking in,
I went to the end when I should begin
I played in the dark,
When it could have been light,
You said I was wrong when you know I was right

Well I wanted a friend and well there you were
You tried to pretend and then it occurred
That you lied to me out of fright
When you said I was wrong
When you knew I was right

[Chorus]
Rain soak me to the bone
I keep you safe from harm
Rain soak me to the bone
You know I will never leave you alone

You wanted to run when you should have been Strong, And you said I was right when I could
Have been wrong
Well you're not the same
Then you would know
Who was to blame and who was to frame

You committed the crime in the heat of passion
I know that you're brave and you'll stand by
Your actions
Well have it your way,
If there's a price to play then I'm willing to pay

[Chorus]

Well you committed the crime in the heat
Of passion
I know that you're brave and you'll stand by
Your actions
You're asking me was I scared
At least I'm not him, He's better off dead

