She came into my bed
In the middle of the night
She said I'm tired of sleeping
Said the world was going mad
She wasn't seeing things quite right
Said the streets were bleeding

I remember thinking
I think I might as well
Turn in for the night
I think somebody's trying to tell me something
So I gathered up my things
And walked back from the light
Wondering what that something might be

She came into my bed
In the middle of the night
Said you must be mistaken
Wasn't sure what she just said
Wasn't sure she could believe
I think somebody's trying to tell me something

So how can we stay still and silent
