You, let it all ride, on the line
I said.... you had become Just another friend of mine Didn't even seem like you with all the crazy things you'd do I loved you until you crossed that line

Hey you're all alone now all alone like you were before Hey you're all alone now
all alone like you were before

I looked up to find you looking down your phone slipped from your finger tips trying to hold back the tears after all these years

I'm tired of playing all these games why couldn't we see things the same I loved you until you made me draw that line

hey you're all alone now crossed that line
all alone like you were before
hey you're all alone now
all alone like you were before
hey you're all alone now
all alone like you were before

I'm tired of playing the game

I'm running all the time because I see you drift away from me I'll know....
hey you're all alone now
all alone like you were before
