Couldn't see my funny side
As far as I recall and it didn't mean much to me
Carried on messing round and getting lower every day

And then a little while later
Looking for a way to get ahead of all the ups and downs
On the road, back at home, it didn't matter much to me

Running round every corner, walk around every street Running round like a madman, run yourself off your feet
Walk about like a zombie, run about like a freak
Running round like a maniac, flipping out every week

Well, I just gotta get away as far as I can go
And as long as I don't see you there
Turn around, look again, what is it happening to me?

Well am I getting paranoid
Or maybe superstition is making me feel this way
Checking in, checking out, I seem to do it every day

Running round every corner, walk around every street
Running round like a madman, run yourself off your
feet
Walk about like a zombie, run about like a freak
Running round like a maniac, flipping out every week

Now I've been working on the road as long as I recall
And it's feeling like yesterday
Giggling, traveling and getting better every day

But I was getting paranoid
Or maybe superstition is making me feel this way
Checking in, checking out, I seem to do it every day

Running round every corner, walk around every street
Running round like a madman, run yourself off your
feet
Walk about like a zombie, run about like a freak
Running round like a maniac, flipping out every week

Running round every corner, walk around every street
Running round like a madman, run yourself off your
feet
Walk about like a zombie, run about like a freak
Running round like a maniac, flipping out every week
