I went out after dark walking on my own I saw a fire in the park with a crowd of people cheering on
A woman was burning

Pitch black tarry grave in the gravel by the side of the road in a ditch by a field in flames

Burn me, don't save me

My hands are covered in her now My shins are gone and I'm walking on my knees
She holds my pleasure in her pain with the stains of prayer baptized in gasoline

Save me, don't kill me
Kill me, don't save me
