Today we saw things of golden and they were golden alright today I helped you climb the highest fence and when you fell down, I couldn't help but laugh but now it's just so sad 'cause I'm further away each day as the darkness swallows you and summer keeps raging and so I run across the lawn just leave me out of this, just get me home 'cause I've seen things that I could do without and I've seen empty shells climb around from back to back and it's a long walk through the neighborhood pass all those faces staring at you from behind closed curtains and they think they know love but they really don't have a clue just keep your head low and your fingers crossed and we'll walk right through while summer keeps raging I want to go high
I want to see the countryside from above I want to sit next to you I want to hear your voice I want so be a child
'cause this world was never meant for me I need to leave it behind I need to see something I need to get out
