

And Then There Were None "Reinventing Robert Cohn"

Visit "Reinventing Robert Cohn" on MotoLyrics.com

Like a thunderstorm that pulls you deep into the night
She speaks to me in numbers and is gone when I open my eyes (she wants more)

You know I'll just forget it if you give me a chance (one more time)

I can't desire something if it just isn't there

It just isn't there, it just isn't there, it just isn't there, it just isn't there

She's in my blood and like a fire inside me

Consumes the air then leads me blindly

She has my hopes and dreams

And she's the one I see who screams "go on, go on"

She doesn't know who I am

I really want to tell her that this can't go on tonight

She's in my blood, like a broken glass

You take one last breath and she'll leave you bruised tonight

She was calling but I kept waiting by the phone

She looked at me with her left eye closed and said

"You don't know if you don't know, then they won't know" (she wants more)

You know I'll just forget it if you give me a chance (one
more time)

You can't decide on something if it just isn't there

She is temptation and temptation has its fangs in me

I never thought that I could live a lie so painfully

Well she was blind and she's taking her time

She goes on and on she takes a hold and never lets you go

Visit And Then There Were None page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.