Today's another gloomy day, here in L.A.
They say it's 'cause the weather's not the same,
feels that way

and i don't want the world to change,
the world's not mine to change,
can't change the world.
don't want the world to change,
the world's not mine,
it's nothing really.

just spill the can of cola on the carpet,
turn it from white to grey.
don't wanna be a cry-baby but it's such a cryin shame.

and i don't want the world to change,
the world's not mine to change,
can't change the world.

don't want the world to change
the world's not mine,
it's nothing really.

i carved a heart
in a tree
with a question mark
plus stefy
who could it be?
who's gunna sign their name?
and will be the one who goes all of the way today's another gloomy day, in L.A.

and i don't want the world to change,
the world's not mine to change
can't change the world.
don't want the world to change
the world's not mine
it's nothing really
