Hating yesterday, always on the go
Looking past today, you can't enjoy the show
Never satisfied 'til you've reached the end
But even then you'd like the chance to start again

You'll never find what you are looking for

Always waiting for tomorrow
Always waiting for the new to come around
Still waiting for the grass that's greener
Always waiting for anything but now

Looks like the skies are clear, you hope that it would rain
But when the clouds appear, you want the sun again
If you had everything or nothing in your hands
You'll never be content in any circumstance

You'll never find what you are looking for

Always waiting for tomorrow
Always waiting for the new to come around
Still waiting for the grass that's greener
Always waiting for anything but now

Here's why you never find peace of mind on your own
You can't be content when you live in tomorrow
He is the one you should be looking for Always waiting, always waiting for

Always waiting for tomorrow
Always waiting for the new to come around
Still waiting for the grass that's greener
Always waiting for something

Always waiting for tomorrow
Always waiting for the new to come around
Still waiting for the grass that's greener
Always waiting for anything but now
