"a broken love"

A broken piece haunted by the wounds of a lost relationship you used to be my everything but now i see your nothing
your nothing

leave your lies at the door i dont want to hear you anymore
poisoned mind living a lie my heart falls cause of you because of you

i will drink this cup then throw it out to sea so that you may not see you may not see that i dont want to be your everything you've lost me

inside your heart im locked away but i can set myself free today
haunt me with your alibis its your sweet melody
