everytime i try to make sense of new york city i always give up I can't get enough of some peace and quiet somewhere down in soho a woman with four pockets has eyes on his cash this may be the last one she sees tonight should i let him know or leave it up to someone else she's take all his dough guess I'll leave it up to someone else

oh, my wife thinks I'm crazy these people upstairs shout disco, disco all day I hate disco I say at the top of my lungs a polka dot bikini, a girl that smiles at dinner is all this world needs not the crime and the greed it sells should i let them know or leave it up to someone else you never really know guess i'll leave it up to someone else aww, living in the land of abe lincoln living in the land of abe lincoln

Lois she's got problems her casanova husband is out on the sly i should know I'm the guy who fixed him up but little does he know she's the daughter of a gangster who runs this whole town she'll be sixteen, he'll be underground but Lois paid me well should i let him know or leave it up to someone else, i don't know

you never really know guess I'll leave it up to someone else, yeah oh, should I let him know or leave it up to someone else you never really know guess I leave it up to someone else
do do doo, do do doo do doo should I let him know or leave it up to someone else...
