We stood before our friends
And pledged eternal love
To have and to hold
We both meant every word
And spoke of one above
Love could not grow old

But then I found myself
So many nights with time my only friend
And I only saw it in your eyes
Too late to make amends, darling

Time can be a healer or time can divide
I never meant for anyone to take you from my side
But I'm just a man
(Just a man)
And it comes down to this
I was just too weak to resist

If only I had known
I'd caused you so much pain
I would not have strayed
And though I promise you
I'll never fall again, baby
I must lie in this bed that I've made

And though I'm hurting you
I swear it was the last thing on my mind
And I found myself on my own
One too many times, darling

Time can be a healer or time can divide
I never meant for anyone to take you from my side
But I'm just a man
(Just a man)
And it comes down to this
I was just too weak to resist
