Could it be that I've been asleep
When did we fall apart?
What is it that I don't be long?
How come I think living was hard?
How can you say I was wasting my time
But accuse me of not wasting it with you
I don't wanna struggle and I don't want to be special
Oh what have I sleepwalked into

Yes I miss the good old times
When the only concern we had
Was how to enlighten our days
Without comparing each others' lives
How we slept those lessons away
Together we could never be wrong
Oh I'm really looking forward to the day that we meet
When our hearts have arrived at their home

So would you let me into your secret
Where do you get your confidence from
The way I see it this world's built on lies
Tell me, what do you rely on?
Yes it is every man for himself
And that's what you want it to be
Well either you're not honest with yourself
Or I'm just stuck in a bad dream
