You've got a lotta detail in your life, of late you find Hey, now that you got kids, well, things loom larger in your mind
You make your best decisions in the time that you're allowed And still get caught at Christmas in that final countdown crowd

It's always problems everywhere, you're juggling
everyone
You do your best each day but when the sun goes down
it's done, it's done
And then what slips through the cracks is just gonna go ahead and fall
Don't let it keep you up nights when you know my friend
You cannot win 'em all, oh no

Exterminator, lawyer, doctor, daycare, dental bill Hey, now that you're essential, have you made yourself a will?
You gotta have insurance just to drive your car to work And wind up down in court with some bad actor, neck brace jerk

It's always problems everywhere, you're juggling
everyone
You do your best each day but when the sun goes down
it's done, it's done
And then what slips through the cracks is just gonna go
ahead and fall
Don't let it keep you up nights when you know my friend
You cannot win 'em all, oh no

Can't no one stop that airport that they're building over there?
Those planes won't hardly clear your trees and noise will fill the air So set your sights on silent nights and greener pastures still
So much for your retirement dreams on Oakview Pleasant Hill

It's always problems everywhere, you're juggling
everyone
You do your best each day but when the sun goes down
it's done, it's done
And then what slips through the cracks is just gonna go
ahead and fall
Don't let it keep you up nights when you know my friend
You cannot win 'em all, oh no, oh no
