I'm sure it takes a while,
To face the world that took yours from you
And the flashing of a light
And sirens turn and burn inside

The things you wish you said
Turn the thoughts inside your head
A hand without a pulse
You want to fight but lost your cause

Your losing sight
Of your favorite pair of eyes
And the part of you where she was too
Made you feel alive
But nothing fills the space
Of things you cant replace
She has to go you know you can't chase her
She has to go you know you can't chase,

Run to her side
You hold her freezing hand and you start
Asking God why
You love so hard to watch her die

And you want to wake up
You want to run you want to hide
Come on baby wake up
Put on your coat its cold outside

Your losing sight
Of your favorite pair of eyes
And the part of you where she was too
Made you feel alive
But nothing fills the space
Of things you cant replace
She has to go you know you can't chase,
She has to go you know you can't chase,

These days you look outside
And only see the cold
Have you forgotten all the things you used to know?

Everything you know is a chase
You can't escape
