Eric Schenkman/J. Bell)

I've been thinking lately

How to get you off my line

Don't seem all that easy but it

Feels alright

I've gotten rid of expectations

That I used to have

And we don't get along and it really ain't so bad

Somewhere in between the blue and the red

"This is temporary," is all she said

Someday things may be a little better than before

All these memories and thoughts knocking at my door

Alone in my room

I lay awake and dream

The sleeping half awake I got to

Try to explain

That I don't need your love and it

Means this much to me

I don't need your love woman won't you see

Somewhere in between the blue and the red

"This is temporary," is all she said

Someday things may be a little better than before
All these memories and thoughts knocking at my door
She must not realize
What this means to me
I figured out her disguise
Hey, Mama, I'm not dreaming
She's way off reality
I've been thinking lately
How to get you off my line
Don't seem all that easy but it
Feels Alright
I've gotten rid of expectations
That I used to have
And we don't get along and it really ain't so bad
