It's a long, long way from where I am
To where I ought to be
I can't remember where I made this turn
Into no-man's land as far as I can see

Stranded beaten and a broken down
With only one way from this place
I always find the strength I need
In the arms of my angel and my saving grace

And I ain't sure how you carry me
Through the darkest hours, so easily
And I ain't sure how you carry this load
Down a hundred miles of bad road

I handed you what was left of me
Prayin' it would be enough
This black and blue and a worn out heart
Was empty 'til you filled it up with your love

And I ain't sure how you carry me
Through the darkest hours, so easily
And I ain't sure how you carry this load
Down a hundred miles of bad road

Is all I'll ever see
If there's an easier path to take
It ain't shown itself to me
But the burden ain't as heavy as it used to be

And I ain't sure how you carry me
Through the darkest hours, so easily
And I ain't sure how you carry this load

I ain't sure how you carry me
Through the darkest hours, so easily
And I ain't sure how you carry this load
Down a hundred miles of bad road
Down a hundred miles of bad road, yeah
Yeah, down a hundred miles of bad road

I will stranded beaten and a broken down

Yeah, you carry me
Yeah, you carry me
I said, you carry me
Well, it's been a hundred miles of bad road
I find the strength I need
And the arms of my angel and my saving grace
