Friends have often asked me why I'm sensitive about my height I just turn around and say well, I used to be immune all my life I have waited to be given any word and it was screaming to be head please remember... the Earth can be any shape you want it any shape at all dark and cold or bright and warm long or thing or small but it's home and all I ever had and maybe why for me the Earth is flat Then when they spill the demon seed turn and face into the wind all along you still believed you believed you were immune and if love is all you're missing look into your heart is anybody home?

any in the world but don't you point that raygun at me

I might just explode

there are stones buried in your soul and only a fool would blame the death of rock and roll and in time you'll come to understand this flat old Earth is in your gentle hands
