And when she walked in the room after so many years
He looked up and saw her He was standing at the crossroads she was moving in slow motion Everything was the same except that everything was different In that very moment, everyone was silent, and everyone was friendly for the First time in years
Everyone was smiling though their pain was apparent And the floor was wet and slippery with the tracks of their tears

Chorus:

And then I see someone standing at the side of the stage
Not standing in the shadows, I see her face, glowing in the darkness in her own Angel way
I have come to make you better, I have come to take you away

No one slipped and fell this time everyone was steady Someone held my arm so that I would not fall
For the first time in a long time Everyone was ready
No one said a word and that simply said it all

Chorus

Walking through the room together in suspended animation
No one saw us go, no one said goodbye
But in my heart I leave great expectations that you will find the answers to Your questions
And that life will once more be a celebration
And that you will be touched by an angel
