I'm choking back the anger
As I'm hanging up the phone
You just called let me know you're doing fine
Another civil conversation
I never raised my voice
I just bit my tongue and swallowed my pride
As angry as I am
I'll never let you see
Cause there's always the chance
You'll come back to me
Nobody loves yuo like I do
It's a lonely life you're living
Though you never would admit it's not easy loving more than just one man
You've got lovers at the office
And boyfriends on the coast
And a friend who's just a casual thing
The grass is always greener
'Til you reach the other side
You'll search and you'll search
But in time you'll find

Nobody loves you like I do
I wish you'd tell me where I went wrong
How could you walk out on me
Now all I have are these telephone calls
Where I never say exactly how I feel
There's never been a moment
Since the day you walked out
That I haven't felt the pain of losing you
But every time you call me
I just say that I'm alright
I never let the loneliness shine through
But if you ever get the feeling
That you want to settle down
Just call out my name
And I'll be around
Nobody loves you like I do
