

Don MacLeod

"Less than a breath"

Visit "Less than a breath" on MotoLyrics.com

We never questioned or doubted faith
The times we held back those tears
The battle of life was all but won
But one that we both shared
And I would gladly lay down my life for her
If dying called my name
A future life without her
Is never really gonna' ever be the same
Words were never needed to express our love
AS she breathed her final stand
Her tranquil eyes seemed to say it all
As she gently squeezed my hand
Like the fading light of a summer sun
At the end of a summer day
You wonder where the flame has gone
Dying's really ever only ---
Less than a single breath away
Taken between two heart beats
Two heart beats - hers and mine
Trying hard to reason why
We just didn't have more time

She's in the loving arms of Gods angels
But oh so far out of reach
Until I'm there beside her
I'm never really gonna' ever be complete
Maybe it's time to consult that book
That can get me through all this
Perhaps give praise for the time we had
And the memories that exist
Like the fading light of a summer sun
At the end of a summer day
You wonder where the flame has gone
Dyings really ever only ---
Less than a single breath away
Dyings really ever only ---
Dyings really ever only ---
Less than a single breath away

Visit Don MacLeod page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.