Transcend unto this mind all the knowledge of your dreams

How can it be both inside the same dream?

How can it be in the same dream?

How much more can we change
These buildings are shifting, this glass is rippling
The water is above us, yet it will not fall
Why is it all out of focus
I thought this was perfect, now I see its flaws

Step by step, brick by brick
I will turn this world into what I see fit
I can be anything, I will become everything

Captivated by the sounds of the lost souls
Their voices are ever-haunting

Who are these faces? Why do they stare at me?
Look away, look away

Why is this crumbling at my face?

How much more can we change
These buildings are shifting, this glass is rippling
The water is above us, yet it will not fall
Why is it all out of focus
I thought this was perfect, now I see its flaws

I open my eyes to the world and everything changes
Not everything's perfect (Now I see its flaws)
I open my eyes again to the world and everything is broke down
