Whatever made me glow
It's gone now
But I pretend I'm having it still

You know it's getting very hard
To go on now
But I pretend I want to

You know it wasn't really me
You know I wasn't really there
I would have thought more carefully
I would have turned away

You know it wasn't really me
You know I wouldn't really care
But someone looking just like me
Just turned around and you were there

My fingerprints are on the wall
Can I go now
'Cause I've got nothing more to say

Except I didn't want to fall
So be still now
As I'm walking slowly away

You know it wasn't really me
You know I wasn't really there
I would have thought more carefully
I would have turned away

You know it wasn't really me
You know I wouldn't really care
But someone looking just like me
Just turned around and you were there

My fingerprints are all over the world
You see my jacket in the street
What if they hear your heart beat

'Cause you've been seen with another girl
She's in everyone you meet

And I can hear your heart beat

All over the world
You see my jacket in the street
What if they hear your heart beat

Another girl
She's in everyone you meet
And I can hear your heart beat
