[One night in a dream a young man of the kingdom of Kali was visited by the god of light: Explaining that it was his destiny to save Kali from darkness and to restore the book, the god chose Him to fulfill his destiny. So take your sword, saddle your horse and fight the evil one.]

Evil is spreading around the world, like a deadly disease
The army of darkness has just one goal, death and destruction to all
Wasting the powers of evil revealed, forcing the mankind to kneel

Now they're coming from the seas, all with weapon in hand
They are raping, they are killing, they try to take over our land
So it's time it's your destiny, help the mankind get free

So take the sword and saddle your horse
And be ready to fight for your life
And make the people, to put on their weapons
And fight the evil one

With powers received from the god of light, you're preparing to fight
Joined by an army that never kneels, and worships the blessing of steel
Will you be victorious or will you die?
It's darkness of light
So take the sword and saddle your horse
And be ready to fight for your life
And make the people, to put on their weapons
And fight the evil one

A strange kind of darkness sank over the battlefield
The enemy soldiers lie bleeding all over the field
The fear in their eyes when you show them true sense of steel

So take the sword and saddle your horse
And be ready to fight for your life
And make the people, to put on their weapons
And fight the evil one
