She's not the girl you knew, so young and innocent with true devotion

She used to be so gentle, I do believe she's gone astray

And I'm open-minded when I get reminded
That she's not the same girl... she's not the same girl

That's the new Mary Jane, she knows what to say
She really can get right to you
That's the new Mary Jane, when she comes your way
With eyes that can see right through you

Pure and good and kind until her true love left her broken-hearted
The girl you knew and loved is never coming back again
And I get that feeling when she sends me reeling
That she's not the same girl... she's not the same girl

Wasn't there a time when she was yours forever
Now you'll have to stand in line
You flash that smile and Try to act so clever

And she might not show it, but she'll let you know it She's not the same girl... she's not the same girl...
