it's never too late that's what we use to say I meant to call you up tonight maybe yesterday
hold on tight walk until I run I know it's reached the end but the end has just begun every morning I'm awake I look back on some small mistake but I know I want you now laying, the longest night of all waiting by the phone I swear she's never gonna call and keep you on my mind and carrying on insisting cause you know what you've been missing so tell me what to do cause every morning I'm awake
I look back on some small mistake
knowing that it feels so right somehow it's the other night there's too much more to lose
knowing you, knowing you knowing you
and I wanted to find another like mine
another lost moment
another lost time and we don't have the time and we don't have to fight again and ever morning I'm awake
I look back on some small mistake
and knowing that it feels so right
