You were stuck in the dark snow
Where the cold of the clouds lives on
They were all chained to the comfortable
Where the keys to the locks were gone

But at the sea there is room for me and you
If staring at the sea will see you through
Then the dark gray horses
Won't get you too, I'll see to that

I was stuck in a gray room
When outside was orange and red
With only seeds from an apple core
And a door that kept us inside and dead

Then you said the ocean's got room for me and you
A little patch of ocean to see us through
And now the dark gray horses
Won't trample me too, I'll see to that

We were stuck in a dark spot
In a cave of too many words
I was chained to old habits and Couldn't see the forest for the birds

But at the sea there is room for me and you
And staring at the trees could see us through
And now the dark gray horses
Won't get us two, I'll see to that

Oh and now the dark gray horses won't get us two, I'll see to that
Oh and now the dark gray horses won't get us two, I'll
see to that
