- peak Billboard position # 45 in 1967

You open your arms when you see me

You cry when I walk away

But though you tell me you need me

There's still one word you won't say

I've got one more mountain to climb

One more river to cross

Say you love me this time

I've got one more mountain to climb

I know that somebody hurt you

He broke each promise he made

But I'd rather die than desert you

So love me and don't be afraid

I've got one more mountain to climb

One more river to cross

Say you love me this time

I've got one more mountain to climb

You need me, I know it

You do little things to show it

I keep getting closer to you

So why can't you say you love me too?

One more mountain to climb

One more river to cross

Say you love me this time

I've got one more mountain to climb
