It's four in the morning
I'm gazing the sky with millions of stars
A moment before the dawn
The endless universe fills me all

Where are you now?
Alone just like me
And Venus in the morning

I touch your face that's filled with pain
I kiss away the tears from your eyes
I've waited you for eight thousand days
Now I've come here to set you free

But where are you now?
Alone just like me
And Venus in the morning
And Venus in the morning

Forget the future, don't live the past
Live for today because life goes so fast
Go find the key to your divine mind
Open the door so many answers you'll find

Like the Venus in the morning
Like the Venus in the morning
Like the Venus in the morning
Like the Venus in the morning
Like the Venus in the morning
