Take a look at this life and pick apart all that you find Throw caution to the wind because there's no use in being kind
Throw caution to the wind because there's no use in
being kind

Dissect all that you encounter
Spread the lies that you have, have created
Disregard fact and speculation
Because they've never been related

It's a one person show and the world is your stage
So don't let truth get in the way
Who said it was right and who said it was okay?
Why do you want to invade my space
And make me feel like I'm the one who is out of place

The journey will be long and its time well spent
Think of people you'll crush when this comes to an end
When this comes to an end

Feeding on, leeching on, holding on
You can't let go, you can't let go
You can't let go, let go
