(written by Stretch Princess) - It's so late now and you're far from gone, our finest hour that I made a little hard and you run. it's no reason, but I know where you are coming from ...a little closer, and I can't even hear myself, you're there for me but you're running without your shoes on. I count ten things with my heart and my hands then start over again. How does it feel? (When you know) I'm still waiting for you and I guess that I will. I know it's easy to get too close, don't get too close, don't. It's a little clearer now but I can't even see myself. You're fixing us but you can't even fix yourself. Try to kiss me, I've already left, goodbye yourself. How does it feel? (When you know) I'm still waiting for you and I guess that I will. I know it's easy to get too close don't get too close, don't. How....how does it feel? When ya know that I'm still waiting for you and I guess that I will. I know it's easy to get too close, don't get too close, don't
