well i waited for the sun to come up along with everything that i had thought of would it come to mind again and again would i be something in the something out there be there in the end it was very upsetting to me 'cause my dilemma was only mine then you tore my soul in two with a single blow and i'm just sitting around trying to figure out which way to come which way to go but she had something else in mind for me then i felt around for whatever i could just to get away from it all like i should and i heard a little something in the wind that told me to stop thinking about where it's coming from but just be happy that it's blowin' it was very enticing to me 'cause my decision was only mine then you chopped my heart in two with a single blow and i'm just sittin' around trying to figure out which way to come, which way to go then i waited for the sun to go down but in my heart i want it to stick around i've been sitting here for hours, you say i'm wasting time but i just can't recall my body feeling so much like its mine
