You never do know which way you should go when you run
But don't take it from me, I can't make you see how far you've come
And if I shook you all up, said you were good enough
Could I be the one

Please don't expect me to offer you truth
When the next one in line might be better for you
You think I'd be sad but it just makes me madder
The harder I try there's just more left to lose

You're facing frustration and intoxication
Stop saying goodbye, another location
Won't give you the answer, it has it's own cancer
Stop saying goodbye, it isn't the answer

Well, it isn't just me
There are others who need you around
But you're nowhere tonight
'Because you know that you might let them down

The ones who adore you will all be there for you
Just give them a chance and don't put up a fight Kill the ignition and make a decision to stay where you are
And start living your life

You're facing frustration and intoxication
Stop saying goodbye, another location
Won't give you the answer, it has it's own cancer
Stop saying goodbye, it isn't the answer

It's your life to build or burn down
Just try to learn from what you've found
It's your life to build or burn down
Just try to keep your feet on the ground
And stop saying goodbye, and stop saying goodbye

You're facing frustration and intoxication
Stop saying goodbye, another location
Won't give you the answer, it has it's own cancer

Stop saying goodbye, it isn't the answer
Stop saying goodbye, stop saying goodbye
