I can see it in your eyes I can hear it in your voice
The signs are obvious that all we had has run its course And I don't mind giving up the upper hand in this little charade
Cause I've spend too many nights here on the floor Waiting for something inside you to change

Don't look back in anger now is all that you can say Cause anger's all I got to keep me warm when you're away
And I know that this is nothing new but tonight is all I know Disconnect myself from your memory and never feel anything at all To justify with all your words don't mean anything to me
'cause I've cut you off

So here we stand and face each other we've got nothing to say A flashback to another time when silence was a welcomed friend
Now I'm sorry I can never really say
All the things going on inside my head
Silence is a justified expression of my war
Now nothings like it was before

Don't look back in anger now is all that you can say
and all your words and all your actions don't mean anything to me
cause i've cut you off

Don't look back in anger it's just a memory in background: Now I'm sorry I can never really say
All the things going on inside my head
Silence is a justified expression of my war
Now nothings like it was before

It's easy to forget your face And it's easy to survive in this place without you, without you

I just comb my hair and wash my face Keep straight ahead and keep my pace
Just think about nothing but now it will be alright Well I got my friends I got my band
I got a million distractions to keep me warm
And I know that it will be alright
