were gonna pay for russian sand mr.president said theres nothing to fear painted with the blood of a fellow man but the bombs theyll fall but the look in his eyes say the end is near falling down on me falling down on me falling down like rain support your troops but not their cause your leaders a desperate man the tears have passed and now at last were gonna finaly take command starting to make him want this years re-election for another term what a better way to make fun o swing guarantee of safe return bet you i'll only loose a few thousand men well that's just the chance i'll have to take to get my public off my back battle this domestic crap and eveding the mess i will create dissapear the diskdrive ignorance on display George Bush and the calvaries will blow it all away loyalty will stand up the war is that it's over now there's no turning back and receed in utter black the war is that it's over with for now help my people now by stand and wait before they may make up they're minds it's just a matter of time and will ignore it all some way.
