I watch you be consumed by your own weakness

It's a sickness and I've been a witness

No pride no respect the image you project

It's a sickness and I've been a witness

The sickness inside of you

It eats you deletes you

It rapes you it breaks you

The haze that you live in

I watch you travel down the path of evilution

Your words they sicken me

Where's the solution

The life you lead is soulless pollution

You seem to live your life in total confusion

Step up, you can front if you want to

You're a slave and a slug to your favorite drug

You're half a man, your own biggest fan

I often visualize this world

Without your filthy presence

And I stand pissin' on your grave

Without a sense of reverence

A disease of society

Stranger to sobriety

You're half a man, your own biggest fan
