"I realised that I always defined myself in terms of what I wasn't I wasn't a good soldier like my father I wasn't the job I wasn't a good prospect for marriage or kids Always what I wasn't..." --> Babylon 5 {Dr. Stephen Franklin} Uhuh, this is a little something I put together for you I got some things to get off my chest man ... Might get it off in one album, I dunno [Verse 1] Ever since I was a child desperately confessing all my sins Making up for bad times and the stress that karma brings I've been alone walking on this path without a friend Hoping for a reason to begin but which just bend And then it started and suddenly I wish that it would end Cos we're consumed by the love of all the money we could spend So when you're wishing for a wish that would fix all that you've done Remember you're responsible so why you wanna run? And so I stand here as a man without a plan for retribution Building the solution for what is personal pollution This is war on the cause for a pause in evolution Cos honestly it's more than a thought for revolution It's cos I fought for resolution with the blood of my father's Spit the raw, you fight for freedom, the more the prison becomes harder So dig faster in the soil of mistakes that you can master And make a better fate so you can break your own disaster [Chorus] Yeah I don't know what to do now - The truth has gotta come out Yeah I don't know what to do now - Because time has just run out Yeah I don't know what to do now - The truth has gotta come out Yeah I don't know what to do now - Because time has just run out [Verse 2] I'm not claiming to be the best, I just am who I am Throw a punch or a word, it's the same when you're damned It's a recreation, dispensate life and death You might regret the next step cos the fight has left Right is left, I'm just a soldier in the army Wearing a vest to protect from the words that harm me The heavyweight mindset, featherweight rhyme debt You might bet the right set of mics will make a fine reppin You'd be wrong, it's not about a sense of best It's about what you wright inspite the lack of press so listen closely, a man without a hope spit the vision on track under the rifle scope And it's a slight fit dope but it just might be broke And my attention into this that my wife can't cope I made a promise to myself and I'll keep it Every action that I make, understand that there's a reason [Chorus] [Bridge] It's the start of an end, leave a mark or defend Break apart as you mend all the parts that you bend It's a reason to believe in fate The only difference is destiny is yours to make And it's the start of an end, leave a mark or defend Break apart as you mend all the parts that you bend It's a reason to believe in fate The only difference is destiny is yours to make [Chorus] The truth has got to come out Because time has just run out The truth has got to come out Because time has just run out "Watching me rise on up like their time is up" --> Rainman
