School is out but it really doesn't matter anymore
'Cuz I finally figured out that's not what I'm living for People in this town tryin' to be smart as they can be I don't have no answers, I wish that you could see

Don't walk away and be misunderstood There's someone that loves you, only if you would Break down these walls

Dogs a barking but it doesn't mean there's a stranger at the door
Right here in America, all so used to keepin' score Afraid to come to the table with a hand that might not win
In this game of life, I've figured out all you need is one true friend

Don't walk away and be misunderstood There's someone who loves you only if you would Break down these walls

Break down, break down, break down, break down
these walls
Break down, break down, break down, break down
these walls

The lonely wolf is always on the run Believe me that I have seen it done
These walls will fall

Break down, break down, break down, break down
these walls
Break down, break down, break down, break down
these walls
Break down, break down, break down, break down
these walls
Break down, break down, break down, break down
these walls
Why do you hurt me so?

I just want to know, why do you hurt me so?
I really think you own me an explanation

'Cuz the situation feels like I'm paying for something I did
But what I did? I don't know
Tell me why do you hurt me so?

I walked into the room and you walk out Tell me what is all of that supposed to be about?
The only time you talk to me at all
You let me know that everything is all my fault

But I done nothing wrong for so very long Least ways, nothing you would know about
Tell me why do you hurt me so?

We should be sharing secrets like lovers
We ain't sharin' nothin' but the covers

I just want to know, why do you hurt me so?
I really think you own me an explanation
'Cuz the situation feels like I'm paying for something I
did
But what I did? I don't know
Tell me why do you hurt me so?
