The sun shines outside,
But I'm stuck here on the inside,
I have to face my number one fear,
I am in a place where people don't believe in love,
All I can do is turn to them and just shrug.

All I really want is to find one person,
I want it to be real, but for now I think I have to face it,
Some people are dazed, empty hearted,
They say love is just a game.

I won't ask them where they are going,
Because they reply so meanly,
I won't depend on someone to help me,
Because I'm stuck here where people don't believe in love,
And I swear this won't slow me down.

All I really want is to find one person,
I don't want to spend forever searching,
I want it to be real, but for now I think I have to face it,
Some people are dazed, empty hearted,
Not focused on what they are doing,
They say love is just a game.

Whether I like it or not,
These are the people I got,
I can't let the love stop,
I have to trust my heart.

All I really want is to find one person,
I don't want to spend forever searching,
I want it to be real, but for now I think I have to face it,
Some people are dazed, empty hearted,
Not focused on what they are doing,
The say love is just a game.
