It's two a.m.
And I'm not sure if we'll make it through the night
I'm running on empty
And I'm afraid to close my eyes

I've lived this day a thousand times
Mistakes I've made never leave my mind
It's hard to see from the outside
If it will be alright

At this moment
You've lost all your faith in me
And with the silence
You took away my dignity

And can you tell me?

What will it take for you to see me for who I am?
And what will it take for you to see me for all that I am?

Why can't we find a way
To keep this thing from dying?
I'm not ready to walk away
From these feelings inside me

I've lived this day a thousand times
Mistakes I've made never leave my mind
It's hard to see from the outside
If it will be alright

At this moment
You've lost all your faith in me
And with the silence
You took away my dignity

And can you tell me?

What will it take for you to see me for who I am?
And what will it take for you to see me for all that I am?

And the faces I've known

They've helped me along the way
And the places I've gone
The memories remain

It all comes down to this moment

What will it take for you to see me for who I am?
And what will it take for you to see me for all that I am?

And can you tell me?

What will it take for you to see me for who I am?
And what will it take for you to see me for all that I am?

And what will it take?
What will it take for you to see me for who I am?
And what will it take?
And what will it take for you to see me for all that I am?

It all comes down to this moment
All comes down to this moment

It all comes down
All comes down
