

Half-Handed Cloud

"Tongues That Possess The Earth Instead"

Visit "Tongues That Possess The Earth Instead" on MotoLyrics.com

The unbelievers seem to have it good
And I envied arrogance when I saw their prosperity
They've no struggles, free from burdens
Common to mankind with lives that shine resplendently
Pride is their necklace
They deck themselves out in violence
The conceits of their minds know no limits

Mouths lay claim to heaven but tongues possess the earth

They seem like they're doing fine
And I've worshiped all this time
Have I followed You for nothing, Lord?
Then you show me they walk on a ground that is slippery
In Your mind they're a dream
When You wake their life's theme will be only a fantasy

Visit Half-Handed Cloud page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.