seeing you again was blinding like a match in a room with no light a sulfur blast then a slow burn champagne in bed just me you and the bottle and sublime as we ride through your town with the bass turned up loud you're three states away and that's not ok hitch a ride to california i drove all night after kissing you goodbye now i'm home and i'm sad and i'm tired and i already miss you i watched the sunrise through my favorite window and the colors of the sky's morning light moved me much the way you do you're three states away and that's not ok hitch a ride to california come see the ocean and the parking lots at the golden gate i will wait for you silicon estates all wrapped in dafodils from alcatraz i'd escape for you on a rainy day i'd swim across the bay for you with the sharks and the fog and the rocks hitch a ride
